SUMMARY

Hexagon provided expert experience, knowledge, and highly relevant past performance to OAA's Army Declassification Directorate. Our experience includes record handling and accountability, records review for declassification, quality assurance, providing reports to OAA management, and transport of classified records. Hexagon has hands-on experience with Army record media, including paper, electronic data, photographs, maps, audio tapes, audio and visual films, microfilm, microfiche, records in languages other than English, and hand-written records. Our analysts are thoroughly experienced with equity identification and classification determinations. Hexagon requires that its review staff attain certification as Historical Records Restricted Data Reviewers by the DOE. Hexagon's exacting personnel standards and document review process has become a DoD declassification standard as recognized by the National Archives & Records Administration.
